AGEWELL - HELPLINE FOR OLDER PERSONS

Agewell Foundation aims to disabuse the popular mindset that regards old age with a sense of pity for their helplessness. Replacing it with an attitude of confidence, fostering respect for them and encouraging fortitude in them. And bringing a little certainty, even fun into their lives.

With this purpose in mind, Agewell-Helpline was set up for Older Persons. A network of thousands of volunteers is already at work in given areas. They are constantly alert to attend, to matters of medical or emotional nature, affairs to do with security as well as legal and financial advice. They are spread across 640 districts of India so that no cry for help goes unanswered.

Agewell Helpline for Older Persons endeavours to bring about a change in the perceptions about old age. It has been set up with the sole objective of providing assistance to older persons and helping them find solutions for their problems.

Objective and methodology of the Agewell Helpline:

- Helpline counters to identify and assist the needy. Understand their specific requirements, immediate as well as in long term.
- Assist them in identifying and availing best possible offerings as per their needs from all other voluntary organizations, NGOs, Govt. bodies and international organizations.

- Assess impact of disaster on individual life and families.
- Organise counselling and community participation activities

Human Rights of Elderly in India - A Critical Reflection on Social Development (July 2015)

Agewell Foundation carried out a national level study to study the status of human rights of Older people in India, to assess the perceptions about human rights of older people in India, to identify responsible factors for dismal status of elderly human rights protection and to suggest or recommend some specific points to policy makers, planners and decision makers so that human rights of older people could be strengthened in future.

For the survey a representative sample of 5000 older people (2490 older men and 2510 older women) was interviewed spread across 200 districts of 20 states & Union Territories of India. Agewell volunteers' network spread across the country worked as interviewers for the survey. The interviews were conducted during the month of June 2015.

Objectives of the Study:

- To undertake a socio-economic situational study of the elderly living in families.
- To examine issues and problems related to activities of daily living, social engagement, social relations and care and attention.
- To list out the difficulties and challenges faced by the elderly with regard to their health and mental health conditions.
- To decipher the existence social support systems and social capital, their types and nature, as available to older people in the family & community to cope with life's adversities and challenges.
- To enlist opinions and views of older people regarding the determinants of healthy and peaceful living.

MAJOR FINDINGS:

- In all, 19.2% elderly respondents, interacted during the survey, reportedly said that they are living in joint families.
- In rural areas 29.1% elderly respondents admitted that they live in joint families, whereas in urban areas only 8.3% elderly agreed that they live in their joint families.
- When elderly respondents were asked about their observation on younger generations' preference, approx. 1/3rd elderly respondents (32.8%) said that younger generations like to live with their parents.
- In all, 49.8% and 82.3% respondents from rural and urban areas respectively think that younger people prefer nuclear families.

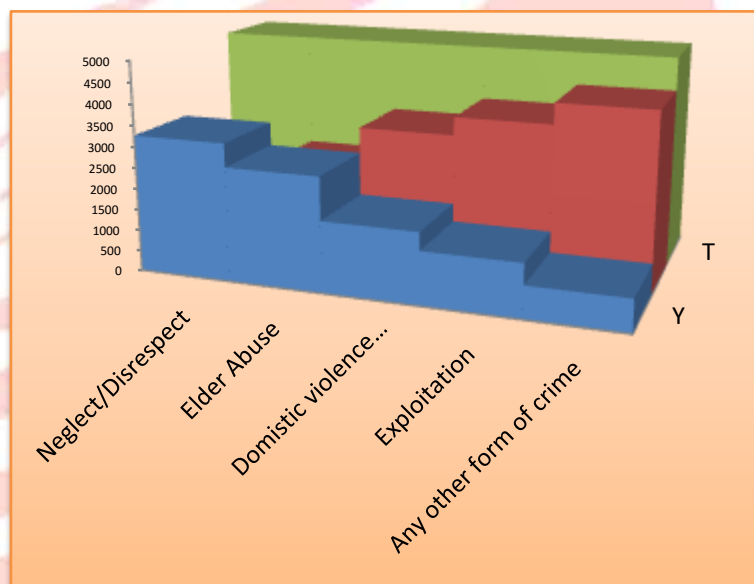

- In all, 46.9% and 17.3% elderly respondents from rural and urban areas respectively, think that younger people prefer to live with their parents.
- According to every second elderly respondent, metropolitan cities are favorite destination of our younger generations to live/migrate in. In all, 40.2% rural elderly and 60.8% urban elderly respondents were of this view.

Most common problems of old people, highly ranked by the respondents were as follows;

- Lack of gainful engagement opportunities
- Declining health status

- In all, 67.5% of elderly abused respondents said that they face physical elder abuse in general.

"I want to live on my own to avoid frequent neglect by my son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren, but I have no regular income to feed myself and take care of my other daily needs and medicines. Now this has become part of my life."

- Dayanand Sharma, 70, Shalimar Bagh, Delhi

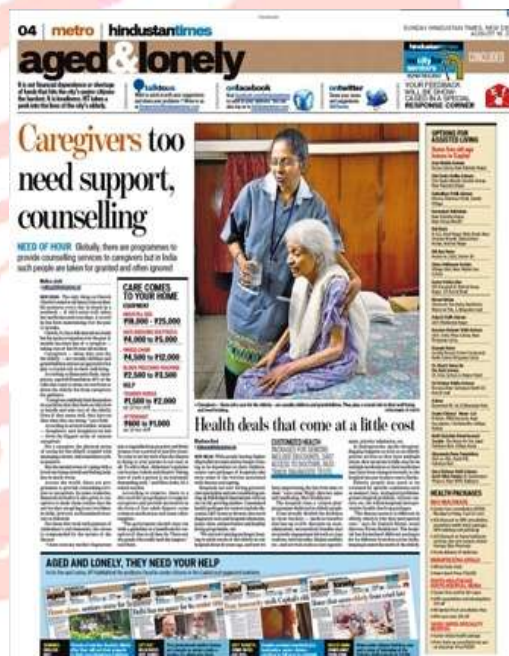

CONCLUSION:

- Elderly have no institutional care system and have to depend on community care/ family care in India.
- Suffering of elderly is directly proportional to the level of disadvantage suffered by an elderly in terms of his/her placement in caste, class, gender, regional/urban development, general medical handicap or sickness.
- Elderly women find no time for leisure or recreation and have lesser possibilities than man to lead retired life.
- Elderly suffer lack of emotional care and elder abuse more in urban areas than rural areas.

A comprehensive care package that includes promotional, preventive, curative and rehabilitative services is essential for this expanding group of population; and suggests for newer forms of services and program interventions by the government. Easy accessibility, continuity and good quality of care only can earn respect and satisfaction of the elderly.
